

Virtual Presentation Tune-Up

60-minutes to success! Our Virtual Presentation Tune-Up is our introduction to our full-length Virtual Presentations workshop. For many of us, presenting is what gets us charged up. While others may shrink away from hosting a virtual meeting, others embrace it and thrive off the energy from a well-delivered presentation.

Now, in our virtual space, it's hard for many presenters to adapt to our changing environment. The reactions we've received during a standard face-to-face meeting can differ from those we get when we present in a virtual medium.

We examine the specifics of presenting to determine what is still applicable in the virtual world and what skills we need to learn or adapt to communicate effectively. Since it's all about getting your point across virtually, we cover:

- A side-by-side comparison of virtual and in-person presentations: What works, what doesn't, and how you need to adapt
- Creating memorable content so that you can create a lasting impression
- Introducing change and how you create engagement within the group about how people feel about that change

This 60-minute course will have participants adapting their future presentations in real-time, so they are ready to go when their next presentation comes up! We also offer a full version of this program called Virtual Presentations workshop.

Clients Talk About this Program

"I have to give a presentation to our vice president on Wednesday and after having participated in your Virtual Presentation Tune-Up program, I feel so much more confident going into the presentation. Thanks so much for everything today!"
